Appendix 5  Code of Conduct for Foreign Language Education, as referred to in Section 7.2(c) of the WHW

Within Radboud University Nijmegen the following Code of Conduct for Foreign Language Education applies. This Code of Conduct is based on Section 7.2(c) of the WHW. ¹

Article 1
Within Radboud University Nijmegen instruction may be given and interim and final examinations may be conducted in a language other than the Dutch language if this is required by the specific nature, structure or quality of the course or the country of origin of the students.

Article 2
A decision to use a foreign language will be taken by the dean of the relevant faculty, after having obtained advice from the programme committee. The dean will take the following premises into account in this respect:

- the need to use a language other than the Dutch language must have been established;
- interim and final examinations of English-language programmes will be in English; interim examinations of subjects taught in English will be in English, unless the examination board decides otherwise;
- the education conducted in another language will satisfy the same quality requirements as the education conducted in Dutch.

Article 3
The decision of the dean will be incorporated in the Education and Examination Regulations of the programme.

Article 4
The dean of the faculty will present a report on the decisions taken by him to the Executive Board annually.

---

¹ Section 7.2 of the WHW reads as follows:

Section 7.2. Language

The language of instruction and in which examinations are conducted is Dutch. Contrary to the above sentence, a different language may be used:

a. where a course concerning this language is concerned,

b. where a course is concerned which is given by a non-Dutch speaking lecturer as part of a guest lecture, or

c. if this is required by the specific nature, structure or quality of the course or the country of origin of the students, in accordance with a code of conduct established by the university board.