Every year, Radboud International Students (RIS) organizes several social activities for international exchange and Master students. The highlight is the Orientation, which is held twice a year. RIS is always looking for enthusiastic mentors!

Your role as mentor
As a mentor you will accompany international students during and/or after the Orientation. You will be in a team with 2 or 3 other students. You may even form a mentor team with your friends. You will of course be well instructed on your mentor duties.

Who are you going to help?
Your mentor group will consist of 15 to 20 international students from all faculties and from all parts of the world.

Your investment
As a mentor you will assist the students in your mentor group during and after the Orientation. This could be for either 1 or 2 semesters. The main Orientation is organized in the third week of August. The second Orientation will take place in the last week of January. For students who are unable to attend the official Orientations a special Orientation Day will be organized. You will receive a small compensation for your efforts, but certain expenses will have to be covered by you (e.g. mentor dinners and drinks at parties).

What will you get from it?
You will build up an international network, improve your language skills, make a lot of new friends and learn more about the organization of events. You will meet students from the university you may wish to study at in the future or from the country you have already studied in. You can help students who are experiencing the same things you were when you arrived.
