GRANT REGULATIONS FOR CLINICAL TRAINING ABROAD

For clinical training abroad, the same conditions and procedures apply as for Individual Travel Grants (ITGs) administered by the Nijmegen University Fund, with a few exceptions. This is because the University Fund has made a separate agreement with the Faculty of Medical Sciences regarding funding for clinical training. The resulting exceptions are described below.

Level of funding
Funding is awarded on the basis of a set monthly amount.
- For countries within Europe, funding is awarded of 150 euro per month for a maximum of four months.
- For countries outside Europe funding is awarded of 200 euro per month for a maximum of four months.

Applying for funding
To apply for funding, complete the ‘Grant application form for clinical training abroad’ and submit it to the University Fund. This must be done no later than 6 weeks before the start of the clinical training. You must include the following documents in your application:
- a statement by your Radboud University student advisor or the examining board, listing the project duration and number of study credits
- an estimate of your income and expenses during your time abroad

A provisional amount of funding is determined on the basis of these data. If so desired, you can request an advance payment of 75% by indicating this on the application form. You will receive the rest of the funding after returning to the Netherlands.

For all other affairs (including required documents for determining the final level of funding) see the Individual Travel Grant regulations.

NOTE: students are eligible for a single ITG. This includes clinical training. In other words, students cannot receive funding for an academic internship as well as for clinical training.

Further information
If you have any questions regarding these regulations you can contact the Travel Funding secretary, tel. +31 (0)24 36 11243 or by email at reissubsidies@snu.f.ru.nl.
For additional information on these and other funding possibilities, consult with your study programme’s student advisor. You can also contact STiP staff members for more information about funding.
