Proving proficiency in the English language
For the Bachelor’s programme in Computing Science

You can prove sufficient proficiency in English in three ways: through your previous education, through your citizenship and through a language test. Below you can find out which applies to you.

Previous education
If you have or will get one of the diplomas mentioned below, you do not have to take a language test.
- International Baccalaureate (Diploma Programme in the English language)
- European Baccalaureate (including English Language 2 or 1)
- GCE A-levels from AQA, Edexcel, OCR, WJEC or CCEA obtained in the UK or outside the UK
- American High School Diploma obtained in the US or outside the US
- A diploma obtained after completing an English-taught programme in one of the member states of the EU/EEA, Australia, Canada, New Zealand or the United States

If you have or will get one of the diplomas from European countries mentioned below and you took or will take English in the final examinations, you do not have to take a language test.
- Austria Reifezeugnis or Reifeprüfungszeugnis
- Belgium Diploma van secundair onderwijs
- Denmark Stundentereksamenbevis
- Estonia Gümmaasiumi lõputunnistus
- Finland Yliopilastutkintotodistus or Studenterexamenbevis
- Germany Zeugnis der allgemeinen Hochschulreife
- Hungary Gimnáziumi Érettségi Bizonyítvány
- Latvia Atestats par Visparejo Videjo Izglitibu
- Lithuania Brandos Atestatas
- Luxembourg Diplôme de Fin d’Études Secondaires
- Norway Vitnemal for Videregaende Skole
- Romania Diploma de Bacalaureat
- Slovakia Vysvedcenie o Maturitnej skúské
- Sweden Slutbetyg fran Gymnasieskolan
- The Netherlands Voorbereidend Wetenschappelijk Onderwijs

Citizenship
If you hold citizenship from one of the following countries, you do not have to take a language test.
- Australia
- Canada (except Quebec)
- Ireland
- New Zealand
- The United Kingdom
- The United States

Language test
If none of the above applies to you, then you have to take a language test. We accept the tests mentioned below and per test you will find the minimum result.
- IELTS Academic: overall score at least 6.5, sub-scores at least 6.0
- TOEFL iBT: total score at least 90, sub-scores at least 18
- Cambridge Certificate of Advanced English (CAE): minimum mark C
- Cambridge Certificate of Proficiency in English (CPE): minimum mark C

The information above has been compiled with the utmost care and should be free from errors. However, no rights can be derived from its content.