

www.hrw.org

At Human Rights Watch I conducted research on access to health care in conflict areas. Living and dying while suffering from an incurable disease in poverty and pain is all too common in sub-Saharan Africa. I wrote a report on the current situation of access to morphine and made recommendations for the possibilities of nurse prescribing of morphine.

An internship at the Human Rights Watch headquarters gave me the opportunity to experience how research and advocacy is done at the highest level!

Wout Linsen, New York

