   b. the total study duration of the study programme.

4. If a delay due to work for a board or a participational body coincides with a delay due to special personal circumstances, the financial support awarded due to governance or participational work is deducted from the number of months of study delay registered due to special personal circumstances (force majeure).

5. If a student is able to present a DUO statement that verifies that the student has a right to a supplementary grant, the student can also apply for supplementary financial support equal to the amount of the supplementary grant in the regular application procedure.

payment from the Profiling Fund.

student must submit a request for payment of the financial support to the Student Affairs granted, the Executive Board shall determine in accordance with Article 18 during which period the

Appendix B: Administrative position in a student organisation

Students who are appointed or elected to the board of a student organisation recognised by the Regulations on the Recognition of Student Organisations are, in principle, eligible for financial support. The duration of the financial support depends on the weight of the position held by the student and therefore on the reasonable study delay involved in performing the position.

The weight of the position is assessed by a Review Committee, which advises the Executive Board. The Executive Board determines the number of months of financial support per student organisation. The basic principle is that a student organisation can be granted financial support for a maximum of 72 months.

1. WEIGHTING FACTORS

   a. Number of members

   To be eligible for financial support, a student organisation must have at least 20 student members. The starting point is the number of student members on 1 November of the academic year in which the student organisation is assessed. Only full student members, studying at Radboud University or HAN University of Applied Sciences, are taken into account. Full membership is the case if the member pays a membership fee and is eligible to vote in the association's general members meeting. Persons who are members at a greatly reduced membership fee or who sign up to use certain services of the association are not included.

   b. Scope of activities

   As foundations do not have any members, instead the number of students who directly benefit from the activities is used. The greater the scope of activities, the greater the weight in the allocation of months of financial support.

   c. Range of activities

   Financial support is only awarded to student organisations that focus on organising activities that are specific to the nature of the student organisation. For instance, a sports association must primarily focus on sports activities and only occasionally organise parties. Activities that are not specific to the student organisation and for which other student organisations at Radboud University are or could be responsible, do not qualify for months of financial support. The nature of the association is apparent from, among other things: the articles of association; the range of activities; the way in which the association profiles and/or positions itself. Introductory activities organised by student organisations - in so far as they contribute to the substantive introductory programme of the university or faculty - they are taken into account in the activities on offer. The committee bases its assessment on a description of the range of activities and other documents submitted by the organisation (including the annual report and financial report).

   d. Added value of the organisation for Radboud University

   The activities contribute to the national and/or international image of Radboud University and to Nijmegen's student community. The activities benefit at least 50 students of Radboud University or the HAN University of Applied Sciences each year.
2. EXPLANATION OF WEIGHTING FACTORS PER STUDENT ORGANISATION CATEGORY

The weighting factors may vary depending on the type of organisation or position. We distinguish between the following five categories of student organisations:

1. student organisations;
2. study and faculty associations;
3. umbrella organisations;
4. activities in the administrative or social field;
5. positions in connection with the management and administration of the university (these are included in Appendix A and are therefore not further elaborated here).

Sports associations, social clubs, cultural, and faith-based organisations are included in the student organisation category.

1. Student organisations:

In order to determine the number of months of financial support, the number of members and the activities offered are taken into account. If an association or a foundation can be regarded as the owner, main tenant or subtenant of a property, and the association or foundation is able to demonstrate, based on a description of the positions and activities, that it performs activities related to building management, the Review Committee may include this in the assessment.

2. Study and faculty associations

In order to determine the number of months of financial support, the number of members and the activities offered are taken into account.

3. Umbrella organisations:

The number of members who benefit from the activities, the job description, and the activities offered (where these can be verified as supplementary to the activities offered by the member organisations) impact the determination of the number of months of financial support. Umbrella organisations which have a dual function (according to the articles of association) that exists between the board membership of the umbrella organisation and that of the associated organisation are not eligible for support.

4. Organisations that organise administrative and social activities:

Organisations that organise administrative and social activities are those whose activities are in the interest of the institution and benefit a substantial number of students. The job description, the activities offered, and the number of members who benefit from the activities impact the determination of the number of months of financial support. The organisation's contribution to the image and the national and/or international profile of Radboud University may also be taken into account.

3. REVIEW PROCEDURE

a. Review Committee

The Student Affairs Office will create a Review Committee comprised of 2 staff members and 6 students. The student members will be appointed at the recommendation of the University Student Council. The Review Committee consists of two sub-committees: the assessment committee, which consists of 4 students and 2 staff members from the Student Affairs Office, and the appeals committee, which consists of 2 students and 2 staff members from the Student Affairs Office. In years of regular compulsory assessment, the composition may deviate due to the number of student organisations that need to be assessed.

b. Compulsory and voluntary assessment

The administrative burden of student organisations is assessed by the Review Committee once every three years on a mandatory basis. In the intervening years, the administrative burden can be assessed at the request of the student organisation. This assessment is valid until the next regular mandatory assessment.

In 2022-2023 and 2025-2026 there is a regular mandatory assessment. In 2023-2024 and 2024-2025 there is a voluntary assessment. In September, Student Affairs informs the organisations about the upcoming mandatory or voluntary assessment.

c. Submitting documents

The following documents from an organisation under assessment must be in the possession of the Review Committee by 15 November at the latest:

- a completed application form; a declaration of recognition;
- the articles of association;
- the most recent annual report (last academic year), including the annual financial report and the balance sheet; this year's policy plan, including the budget;
- job description per board member; activity plan/overview.

d. Proposed recommendation by the assessment committee

The assessment committee will draw up a proposed recommendation on the distribution of the months of financial support. If the documents to be submitted for assessment are submitted later than the deadline stated in the previous section, this automatically leads to a proposed recommendation to allocate 0 months of financial support.

The Review Committee will inform all the assessed organisations and positions, in writing, of the intended recommendation of the assessment committee.

e. Hearing of stakeholders by appeals committee

Within 4 weeks of the date of the proposed recommendation, the parties involved can lodge a written objection to the provisional recommendation with the appeals committee of the Review Committee. The appeals committee also reviews all organisations that have submitted the application form and accompanying documents after the aforementioned deadline.

f. Review Committee's final recommendation

After the stakeholders concerned have been heard or after the four-week period in which it is possible to object to the proposed recommendation, the Review Committee draws up a final recommendation on the granting of the number of months of financial support.

4. INCIDENTAL ACTIVITIES

After the regular (or voluntary) assessment, another incidental assessment round will take place. A maximum of 100 months of financial support can be used for incidental activities.
in the same academic year. A student organisation can apply for incidental months for this assessment. These are awarded for incidental projects or activities that involve a clearly increased administrative burden.
Explanation of the decision-making process

Outline of the proposal
The key changes to the previous regulation:

- Introductory and final provisions have been added to the Regulations, including a basis and a scope provision. The Regulations have also been adapted to Radboud University's new house style and are more in line with the university's qualitative standards for institutional regulations;
- Format adapted to Radboud University's new house style (both in design and layout);
- The Regulations' text was amended for inclusive language (e.g., him/her replaced by they/them (after advice from DM&C).
- In terms of structure, the Regulation has been better aligned with the statutory (WHW) provisions on the Profiling Fund. This makes it clearer that financial support can be offered in various situations, namely in the event of study delay (due to various circumstances), in the event of accreditation not being granted or not being granted anew and in the context of internationalisation.
- The sections on financial support in the event of study delay in various circumstances have been given the same structure, which makes it clearer which provisions apply in all circumstances (e.g. the amount of support and the relationship with any performance-related grant and supplementary grant the student may receive) and which provisions apply specifically to a particular circumstance (e.g. the application procedure for 'compensation for committee work', reporting personal circumstances to a student counsellor, the ‘registration of study delay’ and the concurrence with any extension of a performance-related grant through DUO).
- Several provisions on financial support for study delays have been rewritten for the sake of readability and clarity.
- The section on financial support for incoming non-EEA students who want to complete a Master's programme at Radboud University on a grant has been rewritten for the following points:
  - a clearer distinction has been made between selection criteria and the way these criteria are assessed.
- The section on financial support for a study period abroad has now been merged with Appendix C, so that all the information on this topic can be found in one place; Appendix C has been deleted.
- Appendices A and B have been structured differently, so that Appendix A only applies to students who are members of a governance or participational body of Radboud University, and Appendix B to students who hold a management position in a (recognised) student organisation. Appendix B explains how and on what basis it is determined how many months of financial support such a board position entitles the holder to;
- Authorisation for the Executive Board to amend 'non-major substantive amendments to the appendices' without the involvement of the USC has been removed. This is never used because it is precisely this appendix that contains relevant matters for the USC and such a power is also not in the spirit of the co-determination right.
