Standard list of student-related services

The standard list with student-related services provides clear information regarding the facilities available to students at Radboud University, such as examination facilities, that may be needed for students with disabilities. If you think that you may be eligible for one of these services, please contact the student dean.

The list published here is the standard list. If a student requires a facility or service that is provided, but is not listed here, they can find it listed in Orisis under the category “other”.

- Extra time (in accordance with host faculty regulations)
  Additional time for an exam. The faculty giving the exam will determine the amount of additional time.

- Modified furniture
  The description in Osiris contains information on required modified furniture.

- Food and beverages permitted
  This pertains to the consumption of food and beverages being permitted during the examination.

- Larger Font
  This service involves the use of larger font for exams (used primarily for digital exams).

- Individual room
  The student may take the examination in a separate room, away from other students.

- Smaller room
  This is intended for students who do not require a separate room, but who do need a more peaceful environment.

- Oral examination
  The student may take an oral examination.

- Seating selection
  This is intended for students who do not require a separate room, but who do need a specific location in the testing space.

- Wheelchair
  This service makes it clear to the testing organisation that the student uses a wheelchair, so that it can take this into account when preparing the exam.
• Text-to-speech software
Students who receive this service will always be provided with the associated laptop.

• Toilet use
This service allows the student to use the toilet during examinations (multiple times if necessary).

• Larger font (Arial 12)
The examination questions are printed in Arial font, 12 point.

• Laptop
The student may complete the exam on a laptop (if it is not a digital exam).

• Permitted digital literature
The student may consult digital literature during the examination.

• Paper
A student using this service is entitled to a paper copy of a digital exam.

• Personal mouse
A student using this service may use their own mouse during a digital examination, provided it is compatible with the other hardware and software that RU uses for digital exams. If the student’s mouse is not compatible, RU will see whether it has a compatible, modified mouse available that meets the student’s needs. The student is responsible to test any of their personal hardware with the faculty coordinator prior to digital testing.

• Personal keyboard
A student using this service may use their own keyboard during a digital examination, provided it is compatible with the other hardware and software that RU uses for digital exams. If the student’s keyboard is not compatible, RU will see whether it has a generic, modified keyboard available that meets the student’s needs. The student is responsible for testing the keyboard with the faculty coordinator.

• Larger screen
This service can be provided as a supplement to students using the “Larger font” service. The font can be adjusted during a digital exam, but the screen size may still be restrictive. Students who are unable to enlarge the font to a readable size on the Chromebooks can use this service in order to have access to a device with a larger screen.

• Paper deadline extension
This services provides students with an extension for the submission deadline of a paper or other comparable assignment.

• Other services
Services provided to students, but which are not included under one of the services in this list. If a student is entitled to 50% or 100% of additional time, this will be recorded in Osiris under this section.
