Registering for courses and exam resits
In order to take classes, you need to register through Osiris. Once you register for a course, you will automatically be registered for the initial exam. However, you will need to register for exam resits at least five days before yourself. You can access Osiris and your personal timetable through the student portal.

Semester 2

Binding Study Advice (BSA)
In your first year, you will receive guidance from a mentor, who will have several discussions with you. In February, you will receive your provisional BSA by mail. If you have any doubts or have received a negative provisional BSA, you will be invited for a meeting. By the end of July, you will receive a proposed BSA, which you have the opportunity to appeal. You will receive your definitive BSA in August. A standard requirement of 42 EC obtained is imposed for all programmes in the Faculty of Social Sciences. In principle, you will receive a negative BSA if you fail to complete 42 EC. www.ru.nl/currentstudents/vm/binding-study-advice

Honours Academy: Bachelor’s

Taking extra courses
During your programme, you can further expand or deepen your knowledge by taking extra courses. Please see your student advisor if you have scheduling questions. You can make an appointment through the studentportal (portal.ru.nl).
Selecting electives
Every Bachelor’s programme offers space in the curriculum to take elective courses or minors during years B2 and B3. You may choose to focus on a specific subject area or broaden your knowledge by taking courses from other programmes.

To check when your programme curriculum provides space for electives and to view the courses offered, check the prospectus via the student portal. If you would like to discuss this with someone, please consult your student advisor.

Going abroad
You have various opportunities to go abroad: studying, internships, or summer schools. Every programme has space in its curriculum for students to spend a period abroad without impeding their studies. Begin making plans early: at least one year in advance.
www.ru.nl/ioss/english
Bachelor’s thesis
Every Bachelor’s programme is concluded with a research project in which students immerse themselves in a specific topic. This research will form the basis for an extended report: your Bachelor’s thesis. You can make use of the pc’s on campus to write your thesis. Check ‘facilities’ in the portal to see where on campus you can find available pc’s.

Applying for your Bachelor’s diploma
After passing all your courses and finishing your thesis, you must apply to receive your Bachelor’s diploma. Make sure to do so in time!

Exploring Master’s programmes
During your Bachelor’s you should start familiarising yourself with the possibilities for Master’s and Research Master’s programmes. Consult your programme’s internal information resources, or visit the RU Master’s Open Day.

www.ru.nl/masters

Master’s programmes admission requirements
If your desired Master’s programme adheres to the “strict cut-off” rule and you still have not completed your Bachelor’s degree, you can begin your Master’s programme if you have earned a minimum number of ECTS. However, you cannot take any Master’s-level exams until you have completed your Bachelor’s. For the current regulations, see your programme's EER.

Master’s programme

If you wish to enrol in a regular Master’s programme at Radboud University, you must do so by either 1 September or 1 February (depending on the programme start date). An earlier deadline applies to Research Master’s programmes and Master’s specialisations.

Know your rights and responsibilities!
Every programme has its own Education and Examination Regulations (EER). These regulations will inform you of your rights as a student, but also the responsibilities you have. You should take some time to read through your programme’s EER, which you can find on the student portal. portal.ru.nl

The university communicates with students digitally through the student portal, Brightspace and your RU e-mail account. It will also send mail to the address you have listed in Studielink, so it’s important to ensure this home address is correct.
Examing Board
The Examining Board ensures that diplomas are awarded based on a responsible and fair assessment of the knowledge and skills that the programme sets out to teach. The EER serves as the foundation for the Examining Board's activities. The Examining Board can help you with a request for exemptions or replacement courses, among other things.

Do you have a complaint or conflict?
In the case of complaints or conflicts, it is always best to first try to resolve the situation with the individual or people involved. If that fails, you can file your complaint with the Central Complaint Office.
